

NO SIGNS OF ENDING THE MINERS' STRIKE

THE STRUGGLE PROMISES TO BE A LONG ONE.

Ready to Fight to a Finish—The Shut-down Is Practically Complete Except In West Virginia, Which Is Now the Field of Battle—Illinois Miners Leave the Pits.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 12.—Today marks the beginning of the second week of the coal miners' strike, and already it gives promise of being one of the greatest wage struggles in the history of this country. The success that has attended the strike has greatly elated the miners, and during the next few days every effort will be made to bring out the men in the few mines that are still working.

From the best information obtainable the Pittsburg operators are in no hurry to have the difficulty adjusted. Many of them had stocks on railroad sidings which they held for an advance. Much of this was disposed of Saturday at a good profit. One prominent operator said that it would take another week to determine the exact state of the market, and by that time a general clearing up will have taken place. All interested will be ready to begin business on a new basis, and probably at a higher price.

The miners' officials say that the success of the movement depends on the action of the West Virginia miners. They argue that many men in the Pittsburg district who were not affiliated with their organization sacrificed thousands of dollars and joined the movement. They will tell the mountain state diggers of the success in this district, and every effort will be made to have them join.

The new features in the situation Sunday were the arrival of the Ohio and Indiana state boards of arbitration, the meeting of the United Labor League of Western Pennsylvania and the report that a movement was on foot to import new men to take the places of the strikers at the Pittsburg and Chicago Company's mines.

At the United Labor League meeting sixty-three out of seventy-two organizations were represented. Resolutions were unanimously adopted pledging financial and moral support to the miners, and calling upon all the trades unions in Western Pennsylvania to assist in every possible way in furthering the interests of the strikers. The league also decided to send out a circular to all trades unions requesting an immediate assessment for the benefit of the miners.

The total number of men idle in the various states, as nearly as can be learned, is as follows: Pennsylvania, 18,000; Ohio, 28,000; Indiana, 9,000; Illinois, 27,000; West Virginia, 4,000; other states, 24,000. Total idle miners, 110,000. The loss in wages to these 110,000 miners by reason of the strike is estimated to be $462,000 for the week, figured on the basis that if at work they would earn 70 cents a day. This number of miners would mine not less than an average of one and two-fifths tons each day, which would amount to 154,000 tons a day, or 924,000 tons a week. Supposing that the operators make a profit of 25 per cent a ton run of mine coal, they would be losers by the strike to the amount of $220,000. The railroad companies which have been transporting this coal to the lakes at an average of 80 cents a ton will lose in the neighborhood of $600,000.

DAY OF MASS-MEETINGS.

Miners in Many Cities Come Together to Discuss the Situation.

Shelburn, Ind., July 12.—At least 500 miners of Alum Cave, Curryville, Shelburn, Star City, Jackson Hill and Hymers gathered Sunday at the latter place and held a mass-meeting. It was unanimously resolved that all miners working in Sullivan county remain out during the suspension, or until advice to resume work by the Mine-Workers' association.

Brazil, Ind., July 12.—A large mass-meeting of miners was held here Saturday. Delegates were present from all over the district, and reported that every mine was idle, with the exception of nine men working in the Beck Coal company mine, No. 1, to provide coal for the waterworks. A committee was promptly appointed to order these men out. This may finally close down the waterworks, leaving the city wholly without fire protection.

Massillon, Ohio, July 12.—The mass-meeting of miners held at Dillonville for the purpose of inducing the Wheeling & Lake Erie miners there to join the union failed. The men refused to join. They will not, however, resume work, because of fear of the union men, it is said.

CONDITIONS IN ILLINOIS.

Miners of the Springfield District Decide to Strike.

Springfield, Ill., July 12.—This morning 1,600 miners who have been working in the Springfield district refused to return to work. This action was decided upon Sunday afternoon at a delegate meeting held three miles from the city, attended by over 100 delegates and 500 other mine-workers. A motion was made and carried to suspend work according to orders from national headquarters until such time as an order should be issued to return to work.

Danville, Ill., July 12.—The Kelly-ville and Pawnee Coal Company is willing to pay its miners the Columbus scale, but will not enter into contracts for a year at that rate. The operators claim that they can only pay these rates as long as the market price of coal will justify it. At their mass meeting the miners declined to accept the Kellyville and Pawnee terms. There is not a miner working in the Danville district.

To Show Sympathy for Miners.

Chicago, July 12.—The scarcity of coal, its confiscation by the railroads and the possibility that railroad employees may refuse to haul it are not the most threatening aspects of the coal miners' strike as it may affect Chicago. There is a possibility that if the strike is continued for any length of time the union engineers of this city may refuse to handle any kind of coal that cannot show the stamp of union production, and in this event many of the large plants of the city may be compelled to shut down. In addition marine engineers may be involved and lake traffic stopped.

TANNER MAY CLAIM IT.

Presidency of the Republican League in Great Demand.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—Among the prominent Republicans who are here to attend the convention of the Republican League, which will meet here

GOV. J. R. TANNER.

Tuesday next, the report is current that Governor John R. Tanner, of Illinois, will be a candidate for the presidency of the organization.

But even if Governor Tanner should not be a candidate for the presidency, Illinois will be very much in the foreground during the proceedings of the convention. The delegation will come prepared to make a vigorous fight to have the next convention of the league held in Chicago. The league has never had its annual assemblage in Chicago.

The candidate who most of the men here seem to think has the best chance is Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff of New York, who will have the support of almost the solid east. He is the choice, it is said, of the friends of President McKinley, and this element will come pretty nearly controlling the convention.

The question of where the next convention will be held will be one of the most interesting matters to come before the convention. Besides Chicago, Dallas, Tex.; Omaha, Kansas City, Baltimore, Fargo, N. D., and Los Angeles will be contestants for the honor of entertaining the league in 1898. Each city will send special delegations to work in its interest.

To Hold Back the Correspondence.

London, July 12.—The Washington correspondent of the Chronicle telegraphs that owing to the combined requests of several prominent senators made privately to him, President McKinley has instructed the state department to hold the correspondence with the British government relative to the seal fisheries. It is understood that this action is taken because it is feared that the resentment the correspondence would arouse in Great Britain would be likely to jeopardize the success of the American sealing and monetary commission which are now here.

Will Join Knights of Labor.

Cleveland, O., July 12.—The National Window Glass Workers' Association has been in session here for a week. A delegate stated that a resolution had been adopted recommending affiliation with the Knights of Labor. The union may not be consummated at once, but it has been determined upon. No action has been taken by the convention on the matter of increasing the scale of wages over the existing scale.

Refuses to Recognize Madrigal.

Washington, July 12.—A letter received in this city from Sancti Spiritus, Cuba, says that the Spanish government has refused to recognize Rafael Madrigal as the United States consular agent at that point. The reason given in the letter is that Mr. Madrigal has been too active in affording protection to American citizens.

Chance for Willing Men.

Topeka, Kan., July 12.—Kansas farmers are appealing for help to save their wheat, offering as high as $2 per day for laborers, while the state is swarming with tramps, who refuse to work. Thousands of acres of wheat lie scattered on the ground because farmers cannot get help to reap it.

Young People's Convention.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—The delegates to the Universalist Young People's convention spent Sunday quietly at the various churches of the city. Many of the orthodox clergymen invited Universalist ministers in attendance at the convention to occupy their pulpits. The last business session of the convention will be held to-day.

WORK OF CONGRESS FOR PRESENT WEEK

TARIFF MEASURE MAY BE REPORTED THURSDAY.

Conferees Doing Good Work—Senate Will Do Little in the Way of Legislation and May Sit Only Every Third Day—The Currency Commission Matter—Washington News.

Washington, July 12.—Beyond the fact that the general deficiency appropriation bill probably will be passed and that the senate will stand ready to take up the tariff bill at any time that a report may be brought in by the conference committee, little can be predicted of the course of events in the senate during the present week. The disposition is to do little in the way of general legislation, and there is a proposition under consideration by the leaders of the two sides of the chamber to adopt the plan now in vogue in the house for sitting only every third day after the deficiency bill shall have been disposed of.

This suggestion has been made in view of the possibility of pressure to take up the matter of the appointment of a currency commission. The general impression about the senate is that the house will pass such a bill on the subject as the President may recommend, but there is no probability that the senate will take the matter up seriously. The desire seems to be to make this intention clear by infrequent meetings.

The tariff conferees confidently expect to bring in the tariff bill by Thursday. The length of the debate on the report will depend upon how well the senate conferees may have succeeded in maintaining the integrity of the senate bill. The Democrats and other opponents of the bill make no secret of their intention to oppose the adoption of the report if it appears that the amounts which they were instrumental in securing, putting cotton bagging, cotton ties, burlaps, paris green, etc., on the free list, have been receded from.

The senate will insist upon final adjournment as soon as the tariff is disposed of.

Tariff Conferees Meet.

Washington, July 12.—The conferees of the tariff bill held a four hours' session Sunday. The anxiety to reach a complete agreement as nearly as possible induced them to meet on Sunday, and both the house and senate conferees appear satisfied with the progress that has been made. Several hundred of the minor amendments have been agreed upon, many of them mere changes in phraseology, and on a large majority of these the house conferees naturally have yielded. None of the important problems in the bill, however, has as yet been solved.

Say That Taxes Are Too Heavy.

Indianapolis, July 12.—Gov. Mount will attend the meeting of the state board of equalization to-day, and will probably sit with that body most of the time during the forty-day session. The railroad companies are preparing to ask material reductions in their assessments. All the companies have made the returns of property required by law, and several of them have given notice that they will ask that their assessments be reduced. It is more than likely the board will find some cogent reasons presented by the representatives of the companies for the reductions demanded.

Prohibition Organ to Continue.

Bloomington, Ill., July 12.—The failure of the Monitor Publishing Company of Rockford will not have the effect of stopping the publication of the Lever, the Western organ of the Prohibition party. One of the party leaders said: "The publication of the Lever will continue. Its publishers are mostly members of the Monitor Company, but the companies are not the same. A new company will be organized, and the publication will be removed from Rockford to Bloomington."

Twenty Acres of Flame.

Olean, N. Y., July 12.—Lightning struck a 4,000-barrel oil tank two miles north of here at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. A cannon was procured, and shots were fired at the surrounding tanks to allow the oil to escape and prevent other tanks from exploding. The escaping oil became ignited, and now twenty acres of oil is burning. The loss will be large.

Big Wheat Yield in Kansas.

Topeka, Kas., July 12.—Reports from the harvest fields are to the effect that Kansas will have a larger yield of wheat this season than in any former year, with the single exception of 1892. In that year more than 74,000,000 bushels was raised in the state. The average estimate placed on the crop this year is 50,000,000 bushels on an acreage of about 3,000,000.

Lithographers Meet.

Cincinnati, O., July 12.—Today the National Lithographers' Association met here in their fourth biennial session, which will continue five days. Forty delegates are present, representing Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Rochester, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Denver, San Francisco, Louisville and Cincinnati.

ENDEAVORERS MAY MEET IN LONDON IN 1900.

To Astonish the Old World—Leaders Desire to Show the Strength of Their Organization—Delegates Crowd the Halls and Listen to Noble Sermons Yesterday.

San Francisco, Cal., July 12.—"London in 1900." That is to be the rallying cry of the Christian Endeavorers for the next three years. It is the ambition of President Clark and his millions of followers to show the old world something of the strength of their organization. Nashville has been chosen as the place of meeting in 1898. At the annual meeting of officers Tuesday morning the selection of a convention city for 1899 will be discussed, but the question may not be settled then, for the offers of a number of places are to be considered. Denver has put in a strong bid, and St. Louis and Cincinnati are anxious to have the young Christians visit them.

Sunday was a busy day for the members of the organization. Many meetings were held, all, however, being devoted in character, business affairs not interesting the Endeavorers on the Sabbath. The topic for the early morning prayer meeting was "Prayer for Church Services and Pastors." Nearly every church found it necessary to close the doors before the beginning of the services, so great was the throng of earnest worshippers.

At the regular morning services of worship the pulpits of all the Protestant Evangelical churches in the city were filled by visiting clergymen. In several instances overflow meetings were held.

The great gathering of the day was the afternoon meeting in Mechanics' pavilion, presided over by President Clark.

A mass meeting for men only was held at Woodward's pavilion in the afternoon. It was a success in every respect, and the sight of thousands of men, many of them gray-bearded, excitedly waving their handkerchiefs in giving the Chautauqua salute, will long be remembered.

During the evening regular services were held in all of the city churches.

SULTAN STANDS FIRM.

Ruler of Turkey May Not Yield to the Powers.

Constantinople, July 12.—Queen Victoria, Emperor William, Emperor Nicholas, President Faure and King Humbert have replied to the telegram received by them from the sultan, and all give advice similar to that sent by Emperor Francis Joseph. Emperor William says, in substance, that he regrets his inability to disassociate himself from the views held by the other powers. Replies to the circular of the Turkish government to the powers relative to the frontier question have also been received by the ambassadors. They all decline to admit the Turkish pretensions.

This latest proposal on the part of the Turkish government is held to indicate that the sultan does not intend to yield in regard to the frontier question.

Condition of Winter Wheat.

Washington, July 12.—The following are the percentages of condition of winter wheat on July 1 in the principal winter-wheat producing states, as shown by the monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture: Pennsylvania, 101; Tennessee, 110; Kentucky, 101; Ohio, 88; Michigan, 78; Indiana, 65; Illinois, 40; Missouri, 52; Kansas, 89; California, 78; Maryland, 111; Virginia, 110; Washington 105; Oregon, 92.

National Hay Association.

Canajoharie, N. Y., July 12.—A call for the fourth annual meeting of the National Hay Association at the Monongahela house, Pittsburg, August 10, is announced in the last issue of the Hay Trade Journal. Delegates will be in attendance from all parts of the United States, and business pertaining to the hay trade will be fully discussed during the three days' session.

Hundred to Be Deported.

New York, July 12.—Forty families of Polish Jews, numbering over 100, who were landed by the steamships Sicilia and Verulam, will be deported because they are in a destitute condition, and therefore subject to exclusion as "persons liable to become public charges."

Bottle Blowers' Convention Ends Today.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 12.—The convention of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association will end to-day. Sunday the delegates voted to decline all offers for amalgamation, and sent a message of encouragement to President Ratchford, of the miners' union.

Uruguayans Rebels Beaten.

Montevideo, July 12.—Severe fighting between the revolutionists and government troops has occurred at Aegua, in the province of Cerro Largo. According to the government report, the rebels were obliged to retreat.

Miners' State Institute Organized.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 12.—State Mine Inspector Fisher has organized a miners' state institute, with the object of holding regular meetings and discussing subjects pertaining to scientific mining.

EMPEROR IS INJURED.

Beloit, Wis., July 21.—[Special]—Thomas Carey, aged about eighty-two years, died last night. He had lived here for over forty years, and was connected with the police force in New York for over twenty years. He had served as an officer at Beloit for twenty-five years.

No New Trial For Sullivan.

Virques, Wis., July 12.—[Special]—Judge Wyman denied George Sullivan a new trial for the murder of Asa Gorham, the jury having found him guilty of murder in the second degree. The prisoner will be sentenced late today.

Shooting at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, July 12.—[Special]—James Bukowski, a teamster, aged 29, was shot by an Italian this morning. Two balls took effect striking Bukowski in the back. Revenue was the cause of the crime.

Drowned While Swimming.

Watertown, Wis., July 12.—[Special]—While Dennis Hugh was swimming last evening he was stricken with heart disease, and died before assistance could reach him.

Spanish Troops in Bad Condition.

Havana, July 12.—The Spaniards have destroyed a number of small forts because they cannot spare men to garrison them. An engagement took place this week near Artemisa, in which the Spaniards lost heavily. Over 400 sick and wounded men have been sent on to Havana. In Matanzas Town there are over 5,000 concentrados, of which over fifty die every day. The Spanish mail steamer leaving Havana yesterday carried 1,000 sick soldiers, many of whom will die on the way home. Eleven thousand sick soldiers have been sent to Spain since Jan. 1.

Well-Known Pugilist Dead.

New York, July 12.—Jack Burke, once a famous pugilist, died a few days ago in Cheltenham, England. Burke was born in 1862. In 1881 he fought a draw with Charley Mitchell. It was a bare-knuckle contest and lasted one hour and forty-seven minutes. In 1884 he came to America and fought Mike Cleary, Charley Mitchell, Jake Kilrain and Alf Greenfield. He fought John L. Sullivan five rounds in 1885 at Chicago, and was the first man Sullivan failed to defeat.

Listen to Interesting Sermons.

Toronto, Ont., July 12.—In the various city churches Sunday the pulpits were occupied by delegates to the charities conference. The conference sermon was preached in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church by Prof. Henderson of Chicago, his subject being: "Charity in Its Broader Significance." Rev. Duncan C. Milner of the Armour mission of Chicago preached in the Central Presbyterian church.

Eight Hurt in Collision.

Chicago, July 12.—An electric car of the Sixty-third street line at 4 p. m. yesterday ran down a carriage containing eight persons near Princeton avenue. Mrs. Mary Bredin, of 615 West Sixty-third street, was injured so that her recovery is doubtful. Her four children and three nieces were more or less bru

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

REV. F. H. PENCE has returned from his vacation and spoke to a large congregation yesterday morning, taking for his text Daniel's words to King Nebuchadnezzar, "Wherefore, O King let my counsel be acceptable unto thee and break off thy sins by righteousness and thy iniquity by showing mercy unto the poor; if it may be a lengthening of thy tranquillity."—Daniel 4:27.

A young Hebrew slave stood before the Assyrian despot Nebuchadnezzar and reasoned as Paul did before Felix of man's obligation to his maker. Here were men even in that ancient time who had learned from somewhere that the soul has a value and that to clothe it with character and attributes like those of God was a higher destiny and life purpose than to found a throne. There are two facts here which we forget, and one is that God is no respecter of persons, and that regardless of our earthly exaltation or earthly humiliation, we are men and women before God, and no more.

This thought compels us to bring down our fictitious valuation of honor, position and prominence and influence to a healthy level and to put a check on pride and ambition. It is moral and spiritual, not political or social or mental pre-eminence which gives us pre-eminence which gives us standing in God's eyes.

Power God's Endowment.

Power is endowment from God. Escape its obligation we cannot, but in its possession lies our glory or our humiliation, our life or our death. God gives us all sorts of influence. We interplay, and that powerfully, into the lives of a good many people. We either make it easier or we make it harder for some one either to live a better or a worse life. Heaven shall be heaven, that is heaven, simply because we shall be at rest from fear and anxiety of temptation to moral influence that is bad, either from ourselves to others or from others to us. It means something merely to exist. It means a great deal more to be endowed with power, and this takes on special significance when we realize that the king upon his throne is no more responsible for his use of power than we are for the use of what we have. Each one of you has a kingdom in which you rule. Nebuchadnezzar was no more an absolute monarch than are you. He had men for his subjects; you have thoughts, actions, motives. Men shall die, empires shall fade away, but thoughts, actions, motives, live forever. I wish that we might learn all that it means to possess a soul. It means the possession of all that this world can give; it means to be the natural heir of God and heaven and Christ.

Selfishness the Core

Daniel found this man's trouble, and we find that the king was only human after all precisely like ourselves. Selfishness was at the core of his ailment. It is the universal heart disease. "Break off thy iniquity," said Daniel to the king, "by showing mercy to the poor." Cultivate thoughtfulness for the oppressed and the unfortunate. That was the prescription of Daniel the soul physician to the king. The world must live a long, long time ere it will find a better. The greatest discovery ever made was the finding of that soul within man, that fine spirit which only God can weigh, and that is the thing that survives death—human character. It is true in history that moral worth rises above all other manner of distinction. What do you strive after? What do you admire and seek, the outer garb and kingliness of the man or the manliness of the king? Go back to the hour of your private devotion, and there ask your God to create within you a clean heart; ask him for the riches which never perish, but which grow in valuation while we live, and are redeemable in the priceless treasures of an endless life. Then life shall be synonymous with success, and death not the loss of all but its endless gain.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

A goodly audience greeted the Rev. Mr. Soares in the morning. His text was in John 20:29. His subject was "Seeing and Believing." We can sympathize with Thomas. It was a great thing to believe that one has risen from the dead, Christ did not rebuke him, but after his confession he taught him the lesson that we ought to believe, although we have not seen with our eyes.

The disciples learned their lesson well. Today men are asking for proof of religious things. Christianity is ready to give it. Christ came to satisfy the deepest need of men's hearts, and expected men to believe. He performed His miracles to show the love of God, as well as proofs of His own mission.

Christ was anxious to help men believe in Him, but belief was not to rest simply upon his miracles. Christ alone has the words of eternal life and can satisfy the deep needs of men's hearts. In every man's heart there is a yearning for the good and true, for God and his love. Christ can supply those needs.

The church can supply all the external evidence needed to convince men but how many have rested their faith upon those evidences? Not many. Most Christians trace their belief to a deeper foundation. They have experienced the love of forgiveness of Christ without knowing much about the external evidences or arguments for Christianity. It is the natural way for men to come. Proofs and arguments are good but to believe in the Christ is better. Shall we trust only as far as we can see or can we go farther and place our whole life in the loving care of our Saviour, although we may not be able to understand all about his dealings with us. Let us believe Him though we cannot see how he leads and blesses us in all our paths of life.

The Y. P. S. C. E. was led by Miss Bertha Kimball. The subject was: "Individual responsibility for the conversion of the world."

At the evening service the storm kept many away. Mr. Soares took for his text Mark, 6:30.

The disciples had been learning of Christ, now they were sent out on a mission of preaching and healing, and came back and told Jesus what they had done.

It is of vital importance that we as Christians should come to Christ every day and tell them all that we have done, and listen to his loving counsel. It is necessary that we may be corrected in our views and ways of work. The mistakes will become less and the improvements greater. Our great danger is that we reach a certain place and then stop. Christ said, "Be ye perfect." Go on, tell Christ all and he will help you to make progress. It will give you courage. What will you do when you are discouraged. Ah! go and tell Jesus and it will cure you of discouragement.

He will show us just what is the trouble and help us to persevere and wait until the blessing comes. If we come to Him He will show us that the work is ours and the results are His. We can go to Jesus at any time and tell him all. The deepening of our spiritual lives depends upon our telling Him all about it. Let us have our bethel every day, and tell Him all, for he cares for us in everything in our lives.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

At the Congregational church yesterday morning the pastor spoke on the influence of the bible. The subject was treated with reference to the effect of familiarity with the bible on language, thought, and character.

The bible expresses the loftiest ideas as no other book in literature. The ability to speak on the great themes of religion has been and is a mighty power in helping the world. It is awful to stand before a needy life and have nothing good to say. To know the bible will give a man the power to speak worthily on the great religious subjects. The bible influences thought. Much of our mental activity is narrow routine, and often trivial. To read the bible is to think of our immortal heritage.

The reading of the bible affects character. It impresses duty on the reader. It convinces him that there are some things he ought not to do and some things he ought to do. The bible attracts one to its religion. Any one who reads what the bible says of Jesus must feel drawn to be like him. The bible gives its reader courage. It tells him that his struggle to be true is surely worth while. It tells us that the right will certainly triumph. Many new things will be learned concerning the bible, and it will always be true that he who searches the old, old book will find therein the cure for evil and the way to the beautiful, helpful and eternal life.

The pastor spoke in the evening on the results of sin as seen in Judas' life and death.

The choir will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock.

CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Sunday morning at Christ church the rector, Rev. A. H. Barrington, preached from the text: "The Grace of Our Lord Jesus Christ Be With You All, Amen."

St. Paul ends all his epistles with this or a similar prayer for grace. He realized in his own life the absolute need of grace to give man strength to carry out the purpose that God had in giving him life.

God is identified with all that is pure, noble, true, good and manly in the life of the individual as well as in that of the world, and yet how many realize that no matter what their circumstances or advantages in the world they need the grace of God in order to attain the divine purpose in their own life. They live apart from God and think that they can realize their destiny but even if they obtain a worldly success, their life has been but partly developed. In the education of today attention is paid to the physical and intellectual development but the spiritual part of man is too often ignored. Physically strong, intellectually great man is yet corrupt. He needs, as St. Paul would say, "The grace of God" in order to attain a well rounded manhood and success in the eyes of his Lord. He lives apart from God, he forgets that in God we live and move and have our being, and so he ignores the old time expressions, "God willing," "If it please God," "God be praised," "Thank God," etc., which identify God with the life of the individual.

He is called back to the truth underlying these expressions by such good old English words as Good Bye.

We say it for an hour or for years; We say it smiling, say it choked with tears; We say it coldly, say it with a kiss; And yet we have no other word than this: Good bye.

We have no dearer word for our heart's friend; For him who journeys to the world's far end And scars our soul with glory. Thus we say And unto him who steps but on the way: Good bye.

Alike to those we love and those who hate; We say no more in parting at life's gate. To him who passes out beyond earth's sight We cry as to the wanderer for a night: Good bye.

Good bye, so full of meaning is a contracted form of God be with you. Thus we would have God identified with the life of those who go out from us, that no harm may come to them. Thus we speed the parting guest, or friend, or foe, for the moment or for eternity.

God, our Father, one Father of us all, be with you to keep you from harm, to guide you into the way of truth and life. Thus we come back to St. Paul's prayer for grace, that strength which man needs to fulfill the purposes of God, for every individual life. Good bye. God be with you now and forever more Amen.

ARRESTED THE WRONG MAN

W. A. Woodruff Taken Into Custody and Detained Several Hours.

W. A. Woodruff, an electrician of Fort Atkinson, was arrested yesterday at Milwaukee on suspicion of having stolen $100 from District Attorney Wigdale of Fort Atkinson. It was learned later that Mr. Woodruff was innocent of the charge and he was released. He says he will begin suit for false imprisonment.

Early yesterday morning District Attorney Wigdale reached the city and reported to the police that he was looking for Woodruff whom he suspected of having robbed him of $100 and some railroad tickets. Detectives Moth and Markey were sent out and found Woodruff at Grand avenue and Third street. He was brought to the station and when confronted with the charge asserted his innocence.

"When they arrested me on the charge of stealing the money," said Mr. Woodruff last night, "I told them that I had borrowed the money, but they called me a liar and said that I had stolen it. I told them where I had borrowed $50 on the day I left Fort Atkinson to come to this city in search of employment, but they would not believe me. They stripped me and searched for the money but failed to find any. Then they locked me in a cell. There I was kept from 10 o'clock in the morning until after 6 o'clock in the evening. Then I was told that it was a mistake, and Wigdale said that he would see that everything was kept quiet about the affair. It seems that while I was in jail they telephoned to Fort Atkinson and learned that I had told them the truth and that I had borrowed $50."

"The way the district attorney came to suspect me was this: Last Thursday he lost $100 and some railroad tickets. On the same day I borrowed $50 to come to Milwaukee. I called on my wife, who is employed in the telephone exchange three doors from Wigdale's office. I gave her some money and then went to the depot where I bought a ticket. I gave the agent $20 but he could not change it, so I handed him a $10 bill. In this way he saw I had money and when Wigdale reported the loss of his money and it became known that I left the same day and had money, he suspected me."

Mr. Woodruff is a well known baseball player and a member of the Fort Atkinson team. He has played in the State League for several years and is now negotiating to sign with the Minneapolis team. He formerly lived here.

DON'T FIRE AT THE EDGE

You Have Paid for the Bullet, Make It Hit the Target.

If a man wants to hit a target with a bullet he does not start firing round in a general sort of way in the hope that one bullet will hit something. He takes definite aim at the bull's eye, and does his best to hit it. It is the same with advertising. You do not want to go firing round at anybody and everybody in an ad, but you do want to aim at something and somebody in particular. Some years ago there was a famous trial of a farmer for shooting a noise in the orchard and fired off his gun into the darkness and had the misfortune to kill a boy. It was proved at the trial that he had not aimed at the victim, and in fact had not seen him, but that he had fired quite at random.

The judge summed up in these words: "The prisoner fired at nothing and missed it."

We suppose, sometimes, these good people who fire at nothing in their advertising do occasionally miss nothing, and hit somebody and get some business, but we do not think their method is to be commended.—Printers Ink.

Good advertising consists in: clearly, truthfully and persistently the exact facts about the goods advertised.

CAN'T BUY BEER ON SUNDAY

Chief Hogan Issues an Order To Prevent Sabbath Tippling.

The front, back and side doors of every saloon in this city were securely locked and bolted yesterday. Saturday evening Chief Hogan gave personal notice to each saloon keeper, that no liquor should be sold on Sunday. As the result, bartenders whose duty has been to "be handy" on Sunday, were idle yesterday, and they seemed to be satisfied in having a day off. Chief Hogan says that surreptitious libation must cease, and he means it.

HOW THE BIG SHOWS FOUGHT

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey After One Another's Scalp

There is considerable rivalry this year between the Barnum & Bailey and the Ringling Bros. circuses. These great shows have crossed each other's paths on several occasions. The Barnum & Bailey people got ahead of the Ringlings in getting control of all the bill board advertising at Minneapolis. The Barnum advance agent got everything in the shape of bill boards before the Ringling's man reached the scene. When Ringling's man, Corey, arrived, he found that he was out of all bill boards and similar advertising. But Corey was equal to the emergency. He went to the newspapers, stated his dilemma, and said that he wanted more space than usual upon such occasions, and that he had got to hold up his advertising end of the great show if it cost a fortune. Barnum & Bailey's man posted his bawdy colors on the sides of barns, on fences, and on about everything that was "gettable," and Ringling's went right to advertising in the newspapers. The result of depending on the newspapers alone for circus advertising has been a gratifying success, not only to Mr. Corey, who found himself in what he thought was a dilemma but to the newspaper men themselves. Ringling's vast circus tent, capable of seating its thousands, was not able to accommodate the crowd that sought admission to the evening performance. People had to be turned away because there was absolutely no room for them inside the tents. When Mr. Corey was in Watertown he stated to Public Opinion that he should watch the result in Minneapolis with a good deal of anxiety. The Ringlings looked to him to do a good job in the advertising business for them. He had never before been cut off from the use of bill-boards, and his dependence upon newspaper advertising alone was something wholly new to him for circus purposes, but he remarked that he should attempt to be equal to the emergency by the liberal use of the newspaper columns. He has triumphed, and is to be congratulated upon the success of his advertising scheme.—Watertown (S. D.) Public Opinion.

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, the liver is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, namely Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for about half of a century has been achieving through cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kidney affection, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirements of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

The Best Picnic of the Season.

The regular annual basket picnic of the Early Settler Club of Janesville and vicinity will be held on Wednesday, July 21st., at the Mayflower and Crystal Springs Parks. The grounds will be open from 10 a. m. and during the day and evening. Free to all early settlers and their friends. Boats will run from their docks, alternating every half hour. Fare for the round trip 25 cents; children under 15 years of age 10 cents. Dancing to the best of music after 4 p. m. until midnight. By Order Committee.

F. A. TAYLOR'S.

ELASTIC STARCH has been before the people of the United States for twenty-three years and is without doubt the greatest starch invention of the Nineteenth Century. Last year its sales reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fancy lin drycleaning. It makes ironing easy, restores old summer dresses to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a beautiful and lasting finish. It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum, or any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even as a baby powder.

When You Get Ready.

When you have consulted everybody else and have been treated for every known and unknown disease; when you have filled your system with one-patent, ready-made, same-for-all, sure-cure preparations; when you have tried charms, spells, fakes, fads and fancies; if experience has taught you that Nature alone possesses the power to heal, that certain remedies assist Nature, but none of them cure; that it is better to work with Nature than to fight the disease; that the surest way to cure disease is to remove the cause of the disease, then we will gladly assist you with Rational Remedies and methods which tend to build up and strengthen the entire system until Nature can assert herself and the cause of disease is removed. We treat the Patient, not the disease. This is one reason why we succeed where others have failed. We have been in Janesville more than ten months and are here to stay. Consultation, opinion and advice free.

LAW STARTED THE COAL STRIKE

Some interesting and important facts as to the effects of the Wilson tariff law upon coal mining and upon the miners themselves are brought out by the coal miners' strike which is now agitating the country. The Wilson law reduced the rates of duty on coal from 75 cents per ton to 40 cents per ton. This is just about the amount of reduction in miners' wages, of which complaint is now being made and emphasized by the strike announced for July 4th. President Batchford of the United Mine Workers' Association, in a communication to the New York Herald, indicates that the wages of miners have been reduced since 1893 an average of 30 cents per ton, which is just about the amount of the reduction in duties made by the Wilson law. Curiously this reduction in wages is thus coincident as to time and amount with the reduction in tariff. That the reduction in wages was a direct result of the tariff is, however, accurately shown in another and equally striking series of facts. Prior to the enactment of the Wilson law the eastern cities and manufacturing establishments were supplied with coal largely from the Virginia and West Virginia mines. As soon as the Wilson law was enacted, however, coal from Nova Scotia invaded the eastern market, driving out the Virginia and West Virginia product and compelling the mines of that section to find a market elsewhere. The result was that their coal went west instead of east as it formerly had done and with reduced railroad rates, was laid down in the markets of Cincinnati, Chicago, and other western cities at such low rates that a coal war, followed by railroad war rates, was precipitated. The natural result of this and the reductions in prices which followed was a reduction in the wages of coal miners, all of which is thus clearly traceable to the Wilson law and its reduction in duties on coal.

BUTTER FOR ENGLAND.

More American butter will be sold in England when American dairymen consider the tastes of their customers. The English trade demands a well worked butter with no artificial coloring and no salt to disguise the creamy blandness of flavor which American customers call "flat."

Denmark sends England the kind of butter she wants, and sells great quantities at 40 cents a pound. If we fail to get a good price it is because we stubbornly persist in shipping butter that the London market does not fancy. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has made two experimental shipments and gets back word that the package does not suit that it is salted too much, colored too much, has too much water in it and the flavor is not satisfactory.

If we want any foreign butter trade it is about time the peculiarities of the European market were considered.

London, July 12.—It is announced that the Anglo-Egyptian expedition is to be increased by 10,000 men. The column will capture Omdurman and occupy Darfur, Kordofan, Sennar, Bah-el-Zhazal, and other places. A portion of the forces will advance along the Khartoum side of the Nile.

The Story of a Capture.

"If I hadn't seen it with my own eyes," said the old forty-niner, "I wouldn't be a tellin' it. In our camp we had got kinder civilized an' unless a feller was strung up immediate fur liftin' dust what didn't belong ter him or ridin' off with a hoss not havin' title ter th' same we locked him up an' held him fur a fair trial. We had reg'ler officers an' guards an' th' convicts had ter work gettin' in wood an' cleanin' up round camp.
"One fine lookin' feller came in there with his wife, an' she was finer lookin' nor he was. I never knowed yet whether he done it or not, but it was charged that he was caught crawlin' out from a tent with his pardner's swag. We caught him an' put him inter th' workin' gang till the gran jury could set on him. He had a mighty fine hoss that a lot of us wanted ter buy, but his wife wouldn't sell him, an' took care of him as good as a man could do.
"On a Saturday night that feller broke guard. While we was chasin' round a Chinaman notified us as how th' man was at home with his wife. They must have heard us comin', fur there was a rush from th' back door, there was as purty a spring inter th' saddle as you ever see, an' all of us went clatterin' after th' big hoss while his rider waved a hat an' mocked at us. We followed fur miles, droppin' out one by one, till me an' th' sheriff had th' trail. We could change hosses, but fur ten hours that there big black kept th' road an' showed us his heels. Then his rider just coolly got off an' set down on a log ter wait fur us. We galloped up with guns in both han's an' ordered a surrender. Darn me if it wasn't th' purty woman an' we never see either of 'em ag'in."—Detroit Free Press.

True to Instructions.

My friend the newspaper man told me a funny little story which happened during the last election in a certain newspaper office in this city.

They were pressed for men and had to take on some of the old printers that went out of office with the arrival of the typesetting machines. One of the editorial writers wrote what he considered a fine effort of rhetoric on McKinley. Every page was sorely crowded, and the flat had gone forth that nothing should be leaded, not even editorials. In the midst of the editorial effusion occurred the following sentence: "McKinley's name led all the rest."

This piece of copy was turned over to one of the old discharged men. To everybody's astonishment half of the editorial in point was leaded, making a very offending column to the eye.

The old printer was sent for. He declared he had followed copy exactly. Asked to bring the proof, he hurried up stairs and from a bundle of written sheets extracted what he wanted.

In the meantime the editorial writer had discovered that "led all the rest" had been omitted entirely, and he was madder than ever.

"Where is the rest of that sentence?" he growled when the ancient fossil appeared with the copy. "You've chopped this off at 'McKinley's name.'"

"There is the copy," said the aged file. "Right after McKinley's name you wrote 'led all the rest,' and I leaded it, of course."

The editorial writer had nothing more to say after that.—St. Louis Republic.

Puzzling the Royal Society.

The proceedings of the Royal society of London were not taken so seriously 150 years ago as they are now. A sailor who had broken his leg was advised to send to the Royal society an account of the remarkable manner in which he had healed the fracture. He did so. His story was that, having fractured his leg by falling from the top of a mast, he had dressed it with nothing but tar and oakum, which had proved so wonderfully efficacious that in three days he was able to walk just as well as before the accident. This remarkable story naturally caused some excitement among the members of the society. No one had previously suspected tar and oakum of possessing such miraculous healing powers. The society wrote for further particulars and doubted, indeed, whether the leg had been really fractured. The truth of this part of the story, however, was proved beyond the shadow of a doubt. Several letters passed between the Royal society and the humble sailor, who continued to assert most solemnly that his broken leg had been treated with tar and oakum, and with these two applications only. The society might have remained puzzled for an indefinite period had not the honest sailor remarked in a postscript to his last letter:

"I forgot to tell your honors that the leg was a wooden one."—Harper's Round Table.

Up-to-Date Girl—Remain Miss Ethel? I leave that to you.—Brooklyn Life.

It May Be So.

"They say that matches are made in Heaven."

"Possibly, possibly; but it's different with marriages, of course. They're made most anywhere."—Chicago Post.

A Modern Instance.

"So that affair between Reggie Ashcroft and Penelope Phillips is off. What was the trouble?"

"Why, Reggie forgot that Mrs. Phillips is the man of the house and asked Penelope's father for her hand. Of course, when her mother found it out the whole business went down like a house of cards."—Cleveland Leader.

Disinterested.

"Yes," said the intelligent-looking lady, "I am earnestly in favor of the new go-without-your-breakfast cure, which is now so popular."

"You are—a physician, I suppose?" replied the gentleman.

"Well, no—not exactly. I keep a boarding-house."—N. Y. World.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 12.—The seventh international convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America is to be held in Chattanooga July 15 to 18, and gives promise of being fully equal in interest and profit to any of its predecessors. Special interest attaches to the convention this year in view of the fraternal adjustment of relations between the Baptist Young People's Union of America and the Baptist Young People's Union, auxiliary to the Southern Baptist convention. Fully 12,000 strangers are expected.

Divide African Territory.

Paris, July 12.—After seven weeks of difficult but friendly negotiations France and Germany have concluded a convention of delimitation of the Hinterland between Togo and Dahomey. By the terms of the convention France obtains exclusive possession of Gurma, while Germany annexes Sandanne Mungu to Togoland.

IN INSOLVENCY.

CIRCUIT COURT—ROCK COUNTY.—In the matter of the Insolvency of E. R. Inman, by whom a petition for a discharge from his debts, under chapter 179 of the revised statutes of Wisconsin, was filed on the 29th day of June, 1897.

To all whom it may concern: Pursuant to an order made in the Circuit Court for Rock County, Wisconsin, dated June 28th, 1897, all creditors of E. R. Inman, of Janesville, Wisconsin, are required to show cause, if any they have, before said Court at the Court House in the city of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin, on the 30th day of September, 1897, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as the matter of said petition can be heard, why said E. R. Inman should not be adjudged to be an insolvent debtor within the purview of Chapter 179 of the Revised Statutes of Wisconsin, and the several acts amendatory thereof, and why an assignment of the estate of E. R. Inman, such insolvent debtor, should not be made, and why he should not be discharged from his debts and why such other and further order should not be made as shall be just and equitable in the premises.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SUMMER SCHOOL

THE OPENING SESSIONS WERE HELD TODAY.

Many Teachers Made Arrangements to Attend, and More Will Come Later On—By Tomorrow All Plans Will Be Matured—Managers Were Pleased With the Outlook.

One hundred students were present at the High school building at 9 o'clock this morning at the opening session of the Wisconsin Summer Institute and Review school. Many of them are residents of the county, while the schools of Sparta, Beloit, Albany, Clinton, Monroe and Broadhead sent representatives. Students from all parts of the state are expected to arrive tomorrow, and before the end of the week the attendance no doubt will come up to all expectations.

The department of music was opened this morning under favorable circumstances. This work is in the hands of S. Lillian Byington of Moline, Ill., and it is evident now that this particular branch will receive several additional students before the week has passed.

In the department of methods, physical culture and impression, and academic instruction, a large daily attendance is already assured.

This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, fifty students were in attendance at the opening class in the department of art, with Ellen G. Garfield of the National Academy of Design at New York City, as instructor, and many more pupils will shortly be enrolled.

Plans for Tomorrow.

At the Central school numerous pupils taking work in the seventh and eighth grade studies, applied this morning. This work will be in charge of Miss Ada Brandt of this city.

At the High school building, the greater part of the day was spent in arranging the different classes and in classifying students who applied for membership. Tomorrow morning it is expected that all will be in working order and that many new names will be placed on the list.

Professor D. D. Mayne said the attendance was satisfactory in every respect, but that he expected considerable increase before the end of the week. Professor H. C. Buell was of the same opinion. He said that the national teachers meeting in Milwaukee had much to do with keeping away several of the teachers who expect to be in attendance. This is especially true in the cases of the local teachers, who are yet in the Cream city.

MILWAUKEE GOLFERS COMING

Team of Six from the Country Club Will Be Here Thursday.

The Milwaukee Country Club will send a golf team of six to meet the Wisconsin club on the Janesville links Thursday of this week. Arrangements have been in progress for ten days but it was feared the Milwaukee-Janesville match would have to be put over until August on account of conflicting dates.

The visit of the Milwaukeeans is awaited with lively interest by local golfers, who will see for the first time the possibilities of the game when scientifically studied.

Luncheon probably will be served to the visitors at the club house Thursday, and the visitors will be entertained at dinner Thursday evening.

TO BE MARRIED THIS MONTH

James Selkirk Will Wed a Clinton Young Lady, July 29.

At 5 o'clock on the afternoon of July 29 James Selkirk and Miss Nellie E. Benson will be united in marriage. The ceremony will be performed at the Clinton home of the bride-to-be. Mr. Selkirk was formerly a well known Janesville man having worked at the Sadler harness shop. He was also a prominent worker in Trinity church circles. The bride-to-be is well known throughout the county and is a young lady with numerous friends. They will reside in Clinton where the groom is engaged in the harness business.

STORM AT STEBBINSVILLE.

Friday Night's Gale the Most Severe in Years.

Stebbinsville, July 12—A very bad storm raged here Friday night. Rain and wind came together, blowing down tobacco sheds and fences. Corn and oats are lodged as flat as a floor. Tobacco is whipped, and low places are under water. It was the worst storm we have had for a number of years. Some farmers had to keep their cattle in the barn all day while they rebuilt pasture fences.

BASS WAS A SUCKER TO START A CASE

FOOTVILLE MAN DID NOT PROVE STATEMENTS.

Jury Decided, After Examining the Head of the Complainant, and Also Numerous Witnesses, That Ernest Parmley Did Not Commit Assault on Battery—Defendant Discharged.

Frederick Bass' ingenious story of the cultivator wheel and the knife did not save his case in the municipal court Saturday afternoon, and Ernest Parmley the defendant was found not guilty of assault and battery and was discharged, by a jury.

Hence, it would appear, that Bass was "a sucker."

The scene was at Footville and the case of a nature that renders life bearable to village gossip during the heated term. From the evidence submitted it appeared that Bass, in cultivating a field of tobacco, turned his horse around on Parmley's garden. The owner of the garden naturally remonstrated. This led to a display of fists in which Bass, who is a little man appeared to fare badly.

The evidence rather pointed to the fact that Bass made the first overtures to the enemy and if he did not get in the first blow it was because his insufficient length was against him.

Parmley claims to have lost this knife the day before the alleged assault and denied indignantly that he violated the Footville code by inducing Bass to examine the wheel of his cultivator before striking him. Bass was allowed to display his pate, more or less bald, to the jury, and although a strong glass was used, that body did not seem to be greatly impressed with the damage done.

Parmley says that there will be peace hereafter, even if he is forced to build a stone wall around his garden.

For the reasons above stated it would therefore appear that Bass was in fact a sucker—else, under the circumstances, he wouldn't have told his troubles to the policeman.

The case of W. H. Spooner against G. H. Rictor, involving the value of certain creamery manufactures, has been settled out of court.

William Jones of Clinton, who is charged with illegally writing insurance, was before the municipal court today, and the case was adjourned until September 1.

NO FAIR THIS FALL UNLESS SIGNS FAIL

RECEIVER TO BE NAMED BY THE COURT.

J. L. Bear and A. E. Rich, Who Became Sureties At the Bank, Will Ask That One Be Appointed And as Soon As the Attorneys Can Preface the Papers.

The affairs of the Rock County Agricultural society will be placed in the hands of a receiver, and application for the appointment of such an officer will at once be made.

This is held to mean, by many, that the society will reorganize. Others are of the opinion that the day for fairs in Rock county, has passed, and that the grounds will be platted into lots.

There is little doubt now but what the fair for this year at least will be abandoned. Most of the stockholders think it is too late to make a move in the matter, believing, that at this late day, a fair could only result to a failure. J. L. Bear and A. E. Rich have become sureties at the bank for $2,500 and pay indebtedness. Mr. Bear said this noon that it was their intention to make application to the courts at once for a receiver and that the matter will be taken up just as soon as their attorneys can secure the necessary papers.

IS IT A TRIFLE?

That Common Troubles, Acid Dyspepsia or Sour Stomach.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to promptly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic and being an every day occurrence is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. It is prepared by the Stuart Chemical Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

Inappropriate Wearing of Jewelry.

This is not a far cry, but only a very present reality, which forces itself upon any one with eyes to see and ears to hear, for the dangling of the chatelaine is to be heard long before the wearer thereof appears in sight, while all sorts of supposed to be decorative extravagances in the way of gold and gems are piled on regardless of time or place, some women actually appearing afraid lest they slight some tiny trifle in their jewel casket, and consequently wearing all they own morning, noon and night.

Is it a fancy picture? We think not. Watch the women who ride bicycles, how many of them, both old and young, display ungloved, beringed, and frequently dirty fingers, clutching the handle bars. We might forgive the absence of gloves if in the country. We could condone the dirt, for there is no way so sure to stain one's hands as to let them rest on the guiding power of a restless "bike," but the rings are inexcusable. They are an incongruous bit of vanity which might better have an outlet in correct boots and hat or a well fitting frock.

Again, on the merry go round, that essential summer whirl of pleasure, one beholds the young woman reaching forth for the evasive brass circle with her hands covered with almost as many rings as are poured rapidly into the arm by which she spins in dizzy enjoyment. If she is anxious to lose a stone from the setting, this is a very excellent method of accomplishing her purpose. If she wishes to impress the bystanders with her good taste, it certainly is not the way to go about it. Look where you will, you will see this disposition toward tawdry display. Chatelaine watches, worn on the outside of coats, diamond earrings trotted in to breakfast accompanying a shirt waist or a negligee wrapper—in fact, jewels flaunted so commonly that they lose their beauty and their value and make the wearer conspicuous only for the possession of a plebeian taste that has in it all the essence of savagery. In their place jewels add to the charm of woman. They are essentially feminine in their beautifying qualities, but their place cannot truthfully be said to be either on the wheel, the merry go round or at the breakfast table.—Philadelphia Times.

The Dainty Paris Woman.

Paris has its share of rain and wet pavement, but the Parisienne never wears rubbers, never seems to wet her feet and certainly never bedraggles her skirts. Neither does she ask for any patent lifters—ingenuity, a twist of the hips and one finger are enough. Skirts, rain or shine, are made to be lifted, and jupons are so constructed that the skirt may be properly and becoming, raised. There is no question at all of modesty to be considered, for the jupon is quite as proper an item of street apparel as is the jupe, and more conspicuous. The real Parisienne lifts her skirt high—as high as may be comfortable to carry—and then she gives herself a little shake to make sure the dainty lace edged petticoat is hanging evenly about her ankles. It shows self consciousness and lack of skill to look down to see if the petticoat is there, but if doubt exists it is safer to do so. Then she apparently tiptoes across the street, the gait being sufficiently running and heels a trifle high so that she hardly touches the mud. Fashions change in lifting the jupe. Last year a cluster of what dress-makers call "godets" was held in each hand, and a dreadful superfluity of material was lifted high on each side. Now the dress-makers are putting those godets in another place, and the skirt is lifted from the back. The approved way seems to be to pause a moment while one hand is abstractedly fingering the folds at the back of the skirt. Then, with a quick outward movement—a suggestion of the first figure in a skirt dance—the drapery is lifted and brought about to one side so the hand may rest on the hip. This gives a long, clinging effect, extremely nice if the wearer has a proper figure.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Miss Flora Shaw.

Miss Flora Shaw, as colonial editor of the London Times, holds a position such as a woman has rarely attained in English journalism. She is the author of several charming books for children and a novel or two. She has lately come into special prominence from her connection with the Jameson raid. She is the niece of Sir Eyre Massey Shaw, an English officer. A few years ago she went to Australia as special correspondent of The Times, to investigate the labor troubles in Queensland. She published the results of her journey in a book and also gave a lecture before the Royal Colonial Institute, being the first woman to do so in the 30 years of its existence.—Woman's Journal.

A LIFE LESSON.

There, little girl, don't cry.
They've broken your doll, I know,
And your tea set too,
And your teahouse, too,
Are things of the long ago.
But childish troubles will soon pass by.
There, little girl, don't cry.

There, little girl, don't cry.
They've broken your slate, I know,
And the glad wild ways
Of your schoolgirl days
Are things of the long ago.
But life and love will soon come by.
There, little girl, don't cry.

There, little girl, don't cry.
They've broken your heart, I know,
And the rainbow gleams
Of your youthful dreams
Are things of the long ago.
But heaven holds all for which you sigh.
There, little girl, don't cry.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

AN INDIAN LEGEND.

In the county of Berkshire, state of Massachusetts, the lofty Monument mountain rears its gray form. If there is anything sublime attached to a mountain, a rare beauty will be admitted to linger around this wild and towering line of rocks. Its bold and frowning front extends about one mile, and so roughly is it flung together by nature and standing at the same time so perpendicular that a tremulous chill hurries over the body as the awestruck beholder gazes up at it. A few knotty, dwarfish pines are to be seen peering obliquely from the narrow crevices, looking green even among rocks, like hope flourishing on the borders of despair.

The red bolt from the thundercloud, the winds and the power of centuries have torn away many fragments of stone from on high and sent them smoking to the base, where already a long, pyramidal line is strung along, quite a mountain in itself. The rear of this place falls off with a gentle slope, which is overshadowed by tall and regal looking trees, whose giant roots have never been broken. It presents a fearful yet magnificent appearance. There is no village near to wake the solemnity of its solitude, and silence is as profound at the sun's meridian as at the hush of midnight. It always seemed to me this spot was a favorite with the sun, for the first rosy flush of morning appeared uneasy until drinking the dew from the trees upon its brow, and his last rays lingered there at evening, even after a partial twilight began to fling a dusky shade over the vast valley below. But this may be imagination.

I must just mention a circumstance in relation to this mountain which gave to it the appellation which it has received.

Once this backward slope was studied with the wigwags of the Indians, called the Stockbridge tribe, and tradition has handed down many an ambiguous and chilling tale in regard to them. It was an established law among them that when an Indian committed a deed the penalty of which was death he should plunge himself, or, refusing to do this, be plunged by some one of his tribe, over this frightful precipice. Many had been dashed to the rocky vale below, and so high was the spot from where the victims were cast off that it was generally supposed that the rapid descent through the air deprived them of breath, and few if any had ever been conscious of anything when they had reached the earth.

A beautiful squaw transgressed by marrying into another tribe, and the penalty for such an offense was and ever had been death. She was well aware what her fate would be previous to her sealing it, but it did not restrain her. She disobeyed, and nothing could atone but the full extent of the law. Although she had courage sufficient to face death in marrying, she did not feel willing to sacrifice herself according to the mandate, and it therefore devolved upon some one to precipitate her over the cloud capped mountain. All her limbs being bound except her hands, she was borne to the verge and launched away with all the stoicism for which the Indians are famous. But here a thing occurred which had never been known before. In her downward flight she came in contact with the long branch of a pine which swung out many feet from the rocks, and, grasping it with the clutch of death, succeeded in breaking the force she had attained, and remained holding fast, suspended between the top and base of the mountain.

There she hung at the mercy of a slender branch, without even a hope of rescue. The space between her and the rocks was too much to think of touching them, and her strength, even in the cause of life, was not sufficient to draw her up to the limb. She cast her eyes up, but nothing was there but her relentless enemies, whose diminished and dusky forms were arranged along the edge of the mount.

They mocked her in the situation in which she was placed, and the aisles of the forest reverberated to their hideous and unearthly yells. Below all was in miniature—the rocks were dwindled to a level with the surrounding vale, the trees had shrunk away to bushes, an old chief, who was sitting on a rock stringing his bow, was but a speck, and the outline of his form could scarcely be traced.

It was morn when her sentence was executed, and tradition says that when the shadows of evening began to gather round she still was there, and her shrill cry was heard disturbing the quietness of the hour. Night came and passed away, and still she was swinging on this sloping pine, and the noise which she uttered told that hunger was doing his work upon her. Late in the morning some of the Indians, going over to the verge of the precipice and bending over, saw a few crows circling round the unfortunate victim's head, as if impatient for her wasting body, which they evinced by diving and darting at her form and then, rising suddenly in the air with outstretched wings, as if some motion of life had deterred them from their purpose. Often did they rest their weary wings upon the very tree by which she was supported, and the long day passed with some one of these sable creatures watching the moment when the grasp should fail and her body fall below.

It was on the night of the second day that a scene took place which has never been forgotten. The sun fell away, and every object in the valley to a pale light and causing the Housatonic, in its serpentine course, to gleam up and spangle like liquid fire. Many was the hunter who lay watching the beauty of the beams which were flung across him, and when the last perfect streak had faded over Monument mountain the broad heavens were clear and blue except the crimson folds which floated grandeur along the west. Yet the square still hung by the branch of the pine, and her cries alternately rose through the deep stillness that reigned around.

But soon a leaden haze began to rise along the azure wall of the west and was shortly succeeded by dark, dismal looking clouds, around whose edge the lightning played, as if to light them on in their sad and gloomy pathway. The thunder muttered faintly, then sent its roll up to the meridian, and finally, with increased power, cracked and shook through the very heavens. The shriek of the squaw was heard in the profound pause after the roar had died away, but its echoes stirred not the sympathies of any one of the tribe. Higher and higher rose the storm. The lightning crinkled over the sky more vividly, and the report followed so soon and heavy that the gray old trees of the mount trembled as the peals burst through the upper world.

Night had set in with all its blackness, when a party of the tribe proceeded to behold the situation of the squaw. Soon after their arrival a flame of fire suddenly lit up the woods. The pine was struck by a thunderbolt, setting it on fire, which, being parted from the cleft of the rock, spun round and round so swiftly that naught could be traced of the tree itself or the squaw whom they supposed to be attached to it. Upward it hurried into the air, burning and whizzing in its course, the torrents of rain not even dimming its glare. Tradition says it whirled with such velocity that it did not seem to the eye to turn at all. Away it went, and it is said the Indians gazed at it until it seemed no bigger than a star, when finally it was lost in the blackness of the sky. The base of the mount was immediately examined, but nothing was to be seen either of the pine or the squaw, when it was finally concluded in council that it was the work of the Great Spirit. The Indians, therefore, raised a monument by rolling stones together, which stands to this day, and from which the mountain takes its name.

The untutored urchin quickens his pace when passing this spot after daylight has departed from its summit and whistles a lively air to elevate his drooping spirits, and the teamster, as the crack of his whip rings among the rocks, starts from his seat as if a spirit spoke, so strange are the associations connected with Monument mountain.—New York News.

Drew on Sight.

Commercial law terms are not entirely safe at all times. John E. Watrous, deputy United States marshal for the southern district of Kansas, sends in this story:

Mart Hoover years ago, when Kansas was not the cultivated commonwealth it has since become, had sent a consignment of corn to a commission merchant in Kansas City. The merchant telegraphed, telling the consignor: "Your credit is $27.40. Draw on me at sight." But Hoover was mad. He had expected his money, and none came. He felt he had been duped, and he treasured up the grievance. One time, about six weeks later, the commission man came to Hoover's town, got out of the bus and started to walk down street. Hoover saw him and instantly drew his revolver and fired. His eye was fairly good. The bullet cut away the merchant's necktie and unfasted his collar.

Then Hoover put up his gun. "That's expensive shootin'," said he, "but I reckon you're as sorry as I am." "What do you mean?" demanded the town constable, arresting the gun man. "He told me to," said Hoover, surprised. "Told you to?" demanded the white cheeked city man. "I never did anything of the kind." "You did," said Hoover, and drawing out the telegram he read: "Draw on me at sight." "I done it," said he.—Chicago Post.

How a Great Canvas Was Moved.

The moving of a painting from a pavilion of the city of Paris in the Champs Elysees to the Autenil gallery offered a very difficult problem to the Paris city authorities. The painting, by M. Roll, representing the celebration of July 14, is 32 feet long by 23 feet high and with the massive frame weighs over 2,200 pounds. It was impossible to move the painting in the ordinary way, by taking the canvas off the frame and rolling it, for the painting, being varnished, it would probably have cracked in several places. It was therefore decided to move the canvas and frame as a whole. After much deliberation a special chariot was constructed over two of the floats which were used in the Mardi Gras procession. The city engineer, with eight laborers, proceeded to the pavilion and the painting was carried by eight men, eight others bracing the upper part of the picture to keep it in an upright position until it was deposited in the chariot. It was finally got out without accident and slid upon greased planks upon the chariot. Arrived at the Gallerie d'Autenil, the picture was similarly carried to its new quarters. The painting is one of the largest in existence and was painted by order of the French government in 1880 to perpetuate the memory of the first national holiday of the third republic.—Paris Letter.

With a sharp stick
you can turn up the dirt and get ground ready for planting—but what a clumsy, slow, laborious, ineffective way of going to work! Not much more so, though, than the old-fashioned way of washing. Think of it! Grinding the clothes up and down on a wash-board, with nothing but soap and main strength to get out the dirt. Then think how simple and easy is Pearline's way—soaking, boiling, rinsing. You need Pearline for all your washing and cleaning. You need something better than soap or a sharp stick when you're dealing with dirt.

Wonders in Waists.....

75c and $1.00 Shirt Waists at 39c.

$1.25, 1.50, 1.75 Shirt Waists at 59c.

July 1st found our Shirt Waist stock down to a few dozen, after a season of remarkable selling. We had not to exceed ten dozen waists left in the store, and knowing how manufacturers like to unload, we made a visit direct to the factories in Fort Wayne and Indianapolis and with the cash made the greatest deal in Shirt Waists ever made by a Janesville store and our customers will get the benefit.

160 dozen Waists, all of the higher cost.—Waists which the manufacturer has been selling at $6, $7.50, $9, $10.50 and up to $15 per dozen, all bought at prices which will enable us to divide them into two lots, at.....

There are no patterns in the line which you have seen before; everything is new, clean and fresh. There is a most beautiful line of the thin sheer materials in light colors, also several good styles in dark colors such as navy blue and black with white figures. The 39c line has all sizes up to 44. * We have had a wonderful sale which will last as long as the Waists do.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage, will cost at least $65, whether the circular is good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two on the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings greater returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured.

WOMEN ARE MEMBERS.

An English Way of Training Girls—Inay proprieate Wearing of Jewelry—

A young organization which is growing so prominent and doing such good work that it might well serve as a model for others is the Social Reform club of New York. It is composed of both men and women, whose aim is to forward practical measures for the improvement of the industrial and social condition of the metropolis.

It is truly American and thoroughly democratic, bridging over the chasm between "the classes" and "the masses," uniting both by the best bond of practical fellowship and sympathy.

Though only a little over 2 years old, already the young association has a membership of about 400, representing capital and wage earners alike and almost as many trades as the proverbial Jack was master of. The millionaire securing of home rule for Greater New York, direct action by the people on important laws, public control of public franchises, civil service reform, a lower gas rate, shorter hours, compulsory education for children, free public markets, better sanitation, increase of playgrounds and parks, increase of public baths, the study of the problem of the unemployed, the advancement of the interests of organized labor and many other much needed and sensible reforms.

One of the notable young women members who is heartily in favor of the good work is Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, daughter of that famous pioneer among America's progressive women, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton. Mrs. Blatch, who is a Vassar graduate, in addition to possessing personal beauty and charm, is a scholarly thinker and speaker and an authority on economics and reforms. Her home is in London, but at present she is a visitor to her native land.—Carolyn Halsted in St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

An English Way of Training Girls.

Situated in the midst of a thick spreading wood, about two miles from the pretty little Kentish village of Dartford Heath, is one of the most remarkable educational establishments in the world. It is essentially a ladies' college, no "male creatures" being allowed within its sacred precincts except at certain stated and rare intervals. But this is not all. The point is that it differs from Newnham or Girton, or, in fact, all other girls' schools, in that its pupils are taught not the best way to work, but the best way to play.

The idea is to train up women who shall be physically perfect, and to this end everything else is subordinated. For instance, there are anatomical classes, that the students may know which muscles are brought into play in walking, driving, swimming, etc.; classes in hygiene, that they may learn what kinds of food to eat and what to avoid. But the be all and the end all of the whole curriculum is the attainment for women of that "sound mind in a sound body" which is justly esteemed so essential to men's well being.

The founder and principal of this unique college is Mme. Bergman Osterberg, a Swedish lady, who is rightly regarded as the foremost living authority upon physical culture for women. It was Mme. Osterberg who was intrusted by the London school board with the delicate task of training the board schoolteachers in gymnastics. Over 1,000 of them passed through her hands, of whom rather more than half hold her certificate of proficiency.

The foundation of the physical culture taught at college to the 30 or 40 "sweet girl graduates" there assembled is Ling's Swedish system of gymnastics.

By constant practice in a series of beautiful and rhythmical movements the whole of the body is made limber and strong. Then as soon as the pupil is "fit" all kinds of games are indulged in. Cricket, hockey, tennis, croquet, jumping and vaulting, racing, cycling and almost every other form of sport is pursued with an eagerness and an anxious desire to excel such as would put to shame the boys of many of our public schools. Swimming is also part of the regular college course, a natural swimming bath being formed out of a part of the river Darent, just where it runs through and is dammed up in an old, secluded and romantic garden.

The college is intended mainly for the training of lady teachers of gymnastics, but there are many pupils, the daughters of wealthy people, who are undergoing the course for their health's sake. A girl goes to the training college pale, anemic and listless, and in the course of a few months is transformed into a rosy, healthy woman, fit to "go anywhere and do anything."—London Answers.

Reason's Why Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Rem- edy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemic dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

The dues are 25 cents a month, or $3 a year, some members preferring to make the full payment at one time. There is also a voluntary list of members willing to contribute money to further the objects of the club. With the funds thus provided the club rents two large rooms down town in close vicinity to the homes of many of the humbler representatives. These are open daily from 10 in the morning until midnight and are used freely for ordinary club purposes. They are pleasant, cheery rooms, comfortable as well as useful, and well supplied with books, magazines and papers.

Among the definite aims of the club, wherein the ladies join the men, are the
